Competitive social venues proved the demand. We democratised the format.

Venues like Flight Club and Electric Shuffle have shown that people will queue, pay and return for social competitive gaming. But they cost £2M+ to set up and need a city-centre location.

Team Table brings that same energy to your existing floor, for the price of a pint a day.

"Thought it might not fit in the main bar. The regulars loved it. People come back asking for it now — some playing for hours."

The future of in-venue entertainment is being built right now.

FOUNDING PARTNER

Competitive socialising has already reshaped how people choose where to go out. The venues that move early become the destination. We are expanding city by city, and founding partners shape the product, lock in the pricing, and get priority placement as our player network grows. The community we are building will seek out Team Table venues — and early partners are the ones we send them to first.

The opportunity is here now. We would love you to be part of it. →
